New Parking Regulations

Busses Will Have Space Front of Grand Union Hotel—No Parking at Corners

25 feet from each corner at the intersection of Main street and Central avenue will be kept clear of cars, in order to minimize the hazard of accidents from cars turning the corners. The space in front of the Grand Union hotel will also be kept clear of private cars, so that the Greyhound busses may park there, and this will apply to both east and west bound. Heretofore the eastbound bus has parked on the south side of the street, now it will come in along Second street to Main street and pull up facing west, leaving again by going round the block on Second street thence to Main street and east.

Rally Day Services at United Church

This annual service will be held on Sunday, Oct. 4. The school and the morning congregation meet at 11 o'clock for a combined service in which the children take a leading part. The service is arranged around the theme, "Treasures for the King."

Former members of the school are especially invited to attend this service and help to make it a success. Parents also are asked to come with their children. There will be no session of the church school apart from this.

Part of the offering at this service goes to the Sunday school and becomes a part of their allocation for the world wide work of the church. Those who give by envelope might, if possible to do so, give a piece of silver, as the children's share is taken from the loose collection and their own envelopes.

The evening service is as usual.

Don't envy the man who is ahead of you. Get up and you may get on. "Rascality is less usual than integrity, and therefore commands the headlines."—Henry Sloane Coffin.

May Erect State Credit Houses

E. O. Duke, M.L.A., during his visit last week to Pass towns, was looking over buildings which may be used as state credit houses in connection with Social Credit dividends, which Premier Aberhart stated recently would be issued in two months. It is stated that Stewart Milley's building on Main street was under consideration, at present used by Scott Fruit Co., though no arrangements have yet been made.

It was also reported that Albert E. Knowles was considering erecting a building on his lot on Main street, but he stated to The Journal no definite arrangements had been made.

Coleman Boy Awarded Music Scholarship

John Pietraszko Will Go to Warsaw For Eight Months Course in Violin Studies

On October 18 John Pietraszko will leave New York on the M. S. "Pilsudski" of the Polish Line to continue his studies as a violinist. He was born here, and his father was employed in McGillivray mine. About six years ago he died following an accident. A year or two later his mother died, but despite these handicaps, he kept on with his studies, in accordance with his father's wishes, whose uppermost desire was to see his son become proficient as a violinist.

He has studied under W. J. Harris and W. H. Moser, well-known violin teachers of the Pass, and had been heard in the musical festivals. All who have heard him have paid tribute to his ability, and he was an outstanding player in the school orchestra.

Two others from Canada have been awarded similar scholarships. One from Hamilton and one from Toronto. The scholarships are awarded by the Federation of Polish Societies of Canada. John's parents were born in Poland, so that combined with the pleasure of going there for musical studies, he will also visit the old homeland of his parents.

Must Observe Traffic Rules

Auto drivers are reminded that Section 50 Vehicles and Highways Act reads:

"Any person driving a vehicle on any street or highway within any city, town, or village shall drive such vehicle in such manner that the same shall not cross over from one side of such street or highway to the other side thereof between intersecting streets or highways."

Any person offending under the above quoted section of the Highways and Vehicles Act will be summoned.

This also means that any person parking on the wrong side of the road is an offender under the Act.

Numerous people are repeatedly offending against this section by crossing from one side of the street to the other to enter a filling station.

The Coal Industry and Taxation

Bituminous Field Shows Only Ten Cents a Ton Profit—While Sub-Bituminous Shows Loss of Ten Cents a Ton.

The Western Canada Coal Review, published in Winnipeg as the official organ of the Western Canada Fuel Association, published an editorial in its September issue, of which extracts are of general interest to this district.

It has been argued again and again that the coal industry cannot bear any further burden either in the way of operating costs or taxation. Also, that the Government should, in every way possible, make an effort to ease the load of the industry with a view to once more putting it on a profitable basis.

At one time Canada's coal industry was in a fairly happy position, with mines paying their way. Taxation was not unduly burdensome and Government regulations bore lightly upon producer and distributor alike. Money was freely circulated. Coal was liberally burned, and substitute fuels were almost unknown. The coal industry kept thousands of people constantly employed.

But now the picture has changed, as can be readily verified by the new government graph on operating costs and revenue in the coal industry. Published by the Dominion Fuel Board, the graph gives costs of production, overhead, labor, returns, etc., of the coal-producing provinces for the five-year period, 1931-35.

Today, unemployment in the coal trade is life. Imported coals and substitute fuels have cut heavy inroads on the markets once served by Canadian coals. The earnings of the industry have gradually been reduced. Taxation and schemes of regulation have increased production costs. The result is: The Canadian coal trade is operating at a loss.

True, the loss is not as heavy as it was a few years ago but still there is a definite loss despite the claims of some interests that the mines are making great profits.

Coal production for all Canada marks a loss per ton of about three cents. Saskatchewan lignites are below the profit line by about two cents. Alberta do—

$5.00 for a Name

Boys and Girls, pupils at Coleman schools, are invited to send in a name for the new school building to be erected. The name should be written with the name and grade of pupil attached, placed in an envelope, marked in the bottom left hand corner, "School Name Contest," and left at or mailed to The Journal office.

Names should be in by Oct. 31, after which the judges will make their selection. Now, young folks, get your thinking caps on and see if you can send in a name which will go down to posterity. It will be carved in stone on the front of the building.

Club Site Discussed

At Tuesday's meeting of the council the lots west of the bank were under consideration as a site for the proposed club. The town holds these lots and it was the opinion of some of the council that if the Legion erects a building which will be an asset to the town, it should be on a site in keeping with its value.

Plans so far under discussion provide for a $15,000 or a $20,000 building and these have been submitted by J. S. D'Appolonia to the building committee of the Legion. As soon as it is decided which set of plans will be accepted, they will be submitted to the council.

Will Be Used to Maintain Contact With Planes of Trans-Canada Air Service—Expect Service to Start Early in 1937 From Coast to Coast

Increased importance in the local flying field is seen in the construction of a radio station at Crow's Nest Lake by the Civil Aviation department at Ottawa. The radio station with Sergeant Major Yelland in charge, assisted by two members of the Signal Corps, Narraway and Ramsay, of Ottawa, will be erected on the property owned by Joe Stevenson.

Equipment at the station will consist of two transmitting sets and one receiving set. One set of 150 watt power will be used to contact and speak to all pilots who pass over this route. The other set, one kilometre in power, will be used to send or relay messages to radio stations at Lethbridge or Cranbrook. The local station, states Mr. Yelland, is the most powerful in the district and will be used in many instances to relay messages from weaker stations.

With the arrival of the transmitters, which are expected this week, Mr. Yelland expects to have the radio set up and be able to speak to the pilot of the test plane. The two-motored Lockheed Electra of Canadian Airways piloted by Hollick-Kenyon, chief pilot of Canadian Airways, has been contacted by signals only, but the local station should be able to talk to the pilot in the next few days and radio fans can listen in on their short wave band at 3212.5 or 3642 kilocycles. Conversations between stations can be heard at 332 kilocycles on the short wave band.

Assistance Needed

While it is a matter for congratulation that Churchill, the Hudson's Bay port, is enjoying a record shipping season this year, it is passing strange that active steps to promote increased traffic for the route, for the establishment of which the west fought for over 50 years, should be left to "outsiders."

For better than half a century, farmers and business men of the prairie provinces fought against great odds to establish the Hudson Bay route by the construction of a railway line, and terminal facilities on the Bay to handle traffic and the commerce they hoped would eventually result in better returns for agricultural products shipped out and reduced prices for merchandise shipped in.

The first objective was achieved in 1932 when the S.S. Pennyworth steamed into Churchill Harbor with a cargo of commodities from overseas for Western Canadian consumption and left again with a full cargo of Western Canadian grain for European markets. Since that time there has been an annual increase in the number of inward and outward bound vessels making use of the route until this year, 14 boats have entered the harbor with a possibility that the number would be increased to 18 before the close of navigation.

While, however, these results indicate some progress in the development of traffic by the short and direct route between Western Canada and Europe, the development is not rapid enough to ensure the full benefits which prairie producers and consumers should be reaping from the operation of this great project. If the route is to be of maximum service and benefit to the west, the people of the west, for whose advantage these facilities were devised, must take active steps to promote the use of the service to its greatest possible extent and as speedily as conditions permit.

Recently two notable and interested authorities testified, almost on the same day, that this is not being done; that the people of the prairies are not taking as much interest as they should in speeding up traffic and that, in effect, they are apathetic.

Said R. S. Dalgleish of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, chairman of the Board of the Dalgleish Shipping Line, which company has operated more boats in and out of Churchill since the inception of the route than any other organization, in an interview: "I do not think that Canada has done enough to develop Churchill and the Hudson Bay route," and added that instead of 14 ships entering Churchill Harbor this season there should have been sixty.

The other authority who expressed similar views was A. L. Lawes, vice-president of the Montreal Shipping Company, who, in an interview after a visit to Churchill, was critical of the apathy "in many places" concerning the development of the northern seaport.

Coming from the sources they do, these comments indicate that these facilities are capable of providing much greater service to the people of the prairie provinces than they are now doing, provided the people most vitally interested in the development of the route take the necessary steps to ensure the maximum use of them.

As is intimated by another authority, the greatest possible benefits in the way of reduced costs can only be secured by a big volume of business. This is axiomatic in practically all commercial undertakings.

Mr. Lawes told the press that the French Louis Dreyfus and Co. Inc. was shipping out five million bushels of wheat this season through the Bay channel and said that ten million bushels was a reasonable objective for 1937, but he gave a specific instance of loss of traffic as a result of failure to furnish commodities which could have been handled had they been available.

He reported that the Montreal Shipping Company has ordered the steamship "Brandon" fitted out to handle livestock. "However," he added, "arrangements were not begun in time and no cattle were available for the dates on which the ship could come to the port."

It is true that the On-to-the-Bay Association has done much to promote the development of trade via the Hudson Bay route since the railway line and terminal facilities were completed by aiding successful efforts to secure reduced carrying charges and insurance rates as well as extension of the navigation season, but these efforts must be aided and abetted to the greatest possible extent by government agencies, business concerns, farmer organizations and individuals, if the most is to be made of the new route.

The Hudson Bay route, like Topsy, must not be allowed to just grow haphazardly, but its development must be accelerated by vigorous effort and alert seamanship on the part of all citizens of the prairie provinces.

Nice Clean Coal

Can Be Handled Without Smudging Hands Or Clothes

Coal cubes—"you can feed the furnace with them in your dinner clothes"—were put on the fuel market in Chicago.

The cubes were so clean, salesmen boasted at the American coal week exposition, that:

Snow white trucks delivered them. White liveried drivers carried them into the house.

Husbands tossed them into the furnace without smudging their clothes, or even their hands.

They were piled up beside the fireplace in the living room, and used instead of logs.

The secret of it all was that the cubes were wrapped in heavy paper.

Made of fine coal—known to coalmen as "screenings" or "slack"—mixed with water and glue, the cubes were pressed into shape just as sugar cubes are.

Each package held six 3½-inch cubes and weighed 10 pounds. By the ton, the cubed coal sold slightly less than coke or anthracite, slightly more than other kinds of bituminous coal.

More Demand For Hay

We have noticed several references to the poor hay crop in many rural areas of Great Britain due to an excess of rainfall. Canadian exports of hay to the United Kingdom last year totalled 22,221 tons, being the largest quantity sent during the past six years. Indications are that these figures will be surpassed in the current year for more attractive prices to the farmer.

Raw Asbestos Found

Deposits Discovered Near New Gold Fields In Ontario

Deposits of raw asbestos have been found north and south of the gold fields recently discovered 11 miles north of Arden, Ont. It was learned this tiny village of 350 population, continued to attract mining men and prospectors from widely separated sections of Canada and the United States as all reports tended to confirm the optimistic expressions of local residents as well as extension of the new gold fields. The gold vein runs ten miles east and west straight through the bush country, and extends about three and one-half miles in width, according to experts.

Staking of claims continued over a wide area adjoining the gold vein, first discovered last June by T. Alexander and Mervin Newton, local men. They have sold their claims to Hollinger mines. They reportedly received $75,000. Hollinger engineers also have secured much additional property in the district. Representatives of all other leading Canadian mining companies are on the ground taking up options and buying out prospectors willing to sell.

Canada's New Coinage

Reported That New Designs Will Appear On Different Denominations

When Canada's new coinage is issued, one of the coins may gladden the eyes of western Canadians. It may bear on the reverse side a grain elevator or a similar prairie scene.

Big changes are being planned in the new coins, which will bear the head of King Edward and which are expected to be issued in 1937.

The head of the king, of course, will be upon one side of the coin and will face to the left. But designs for the reverse side are still under consideration and suggestions are being narrowed down.

The idea is to abandon the traditional wreath of maple leaves and provide a new and different design for each one of the 1, 5, 10- and 25-cent coins.

As a concession to sectional claims and to emphasize the resources and interests in Canada, the designs under consideration are of a wide variety.

One coin will likely show a fishing schooner—the famous Bluenose—another a peak in the Rockies, a third a fast gun subject, and a fourth a grain elevator or some prairie topic.

There is some talk that the 50-cent coin—always an unpopular one—may be discontinued.

The suggested designs will follow that seen on the recent $1 silver coin, which bears a canoe paddled by an Indian and a voyageur.

Canadian topics have been pictured on Canadian stamps—such as the Bluenose, the peak of the Rockies, a prairie scene of harvesting and others.

Latest Surgical Discovery

Tests Will Show Susceptibility To Shock In Operations

A corner at least of the always dangerous curtain of unconsciousness that hides surgical and post-operative shock is being pulled by a physician at the American Congress on Physical Therapy. He revealed for the first time that tests could be conducted which tended to prevent prospective death in cases other than emergencies.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, chairman of the committee of preventive medicine of the New York County Medical Society, discovered that persons whose vasomotor efficiency (condition of the blood vessels) was dangerously low—nearly always—showed a marked decrease in blood pressure when made to stand, and a simultaneous and extreme quickening of the pulse.

Dr. Crampton told the medical men that with charts he had worked out over a long period of years surgeons could tell with the simple tests whether a patient about to be operated upon would develop shock.

"When the readings are low, but immediate surgery is imperative, the surgeon must expect trouble, employ speed, spare trauma and select less severe operative procedure."

Solves Problem Of Growers

X-Ray Used To Determine Quality Of Vegetables

One of Minnesota's vegetable growers' greatest problems—that of ascertaining the quality of their products—has been solved by a University of Minnesota plant physiologist.

R. B. Harvey, of the university farm, has perfected a method by which he can peg into the string of potatoes and other agricultural products.

Employing the use of an X-ray and a physician's fluoroscope, Harvey can detect those vegetables, with hollow hearts and thus rate accurately products by testing samples in large quantities.

Oil Made Good Light

Natives Of Hawaii Used Nuts From Kuku Tree

Lumbar or kuku oil, obtained from the nuts of the kuku tree, nut tree, are occasionally used in the manufacture of some kinds of paint. The candiant tree is native to Polynesia and is widely cultivated in Asia, Hawaii and the Philippines. Formerly the Hawaiians strung the nuts together on sticks and used them for lighting their houses. Hence the name "candiant."

For The Chickens

A sudden demand for lippit by prim elderly ladies and grim-visaged women of toll at Ancaster, Ontario, puzzled a merchant so much that he finally inquired of an elderly farmer why he wanted the cosmetic. "To color the combs and wattles of chickens I am showing at county fairs," was the answer.

It is said that hair will stretch one-fourth of its own length.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food cannot digest, and you will feel bloated, gas, flatulence, and you will feel sick, and you will feel weak, and the world looks pink.

Now you need something that will get the liver to work. It takes three grains of Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up" and "happy." Harmonize and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a dozen, but have no alcohol or other harmful things. For Carter's Little Liver Pills, put them down. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

Manager Was Nervous

When Miniature Oil Derrick Started Working In Hotel

The U. S. Federal Government set up a derrick and started digging for oil in the lobby of the Mayflower hotel in Washington.

The drill bit down toward pay dirt. All the experts of the Bureau of Mines stood around admiring, while a miniature model of a Texas oil well drilled a neat round hole in the middle of an imitation prairie.

Beneath the prairie was some mud and dirt. Beneath the mud and dirt was a can of oil. Beneath the can was an Oriental rug and beneath the rug was a white marble floor. That explains why the manager was a little apprehensive.

The Bureau of Mines said it was figuring, sort of, on a gusher for the benefit of foreign scientists attending the third world power conference, especially for those in whose native lands gasoline is found only in five-cent cans. The hotel's man asked if the bureau didn't think a gusher might be a little hard on the ceiling?

The bureau's man said how about a teesie-weenie, little gusher, then? And furthermore, the opposition said, what if the drill sliced through the bottom of the can, chewed the rug, bored into the floor and went to work on the machinery in the cellar? The bureau said not to worry, it would turn off the juice in plenty of time.

Also, for the edification of visiting engineers, the bureau installed an ultra-modern model of a refinery, in one end of which you drop a lump of coal and turn on the electricity. From the other end there comes moth balls, oil of jasmine, headache tablets, saccharin, nitric acid, glycerine, and a couple of hundred other products, including steering wheels for automobiles.

The model is over-simplified, the bureau explain, and it doesn't really work, but it does show the amazing things which brains and a lot of electricity can extract from a load of anthracite.

Exhibits concerning science overflowed the hotel and spread all over town. Dr. C. G. A. Abbott's engine, deriving its power from solar rays and mirrors, was at the Smithsonian Institution.

The government's elevator for salmon, being built into the Bonneville dam in the Pacific Northwest, was modeled at the National Museum.

The government's silk stocker tester, which walks and bends its knees.

War Not Glorified

Is A Cruel And Wasteful Thing.

Says Lord Tweedsmuir, returned soldiers know that war is "a cruel and wasteful thing." Baron Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general, told the Amputations Association of the Great War, in annual convention at Winnipeg.

In a brief address, His Excellency said men who had lost a limb or an eye "may be perfectly happy and comfortable physically, yet this reminder of the war they must always have with them."

"Such men know," he continued, "that war is not essentially a noble, or heroic, or beautiful thing, but that it is a cruel and wasteful thing. So it is they who say to themselves, 'Please God, it shall not come again.' Thus, the amputations men are in a position to inspire real public feeling about the war."

The governor-general was made a member of the association. In pinning his identification badge upon him, Rev. Captain S. E. Lambert, association president, addressed the governor-general as "Comrade Lord Tweedsmuir."

A resolution adopted by the delegates declared civil servants who served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and who have not already had such service computed as civil service time for superannuation purposes, should be credited with their military service period as civil service.

"What did you do this summer?" asked the ladies friend.

"I worked in my father's office," said the young man.

After Ten-Year Blindness

Young Man Gets Real Thrill When Sight Comes Back

After ten years of total blindness, Roy K. Kendrick of Bondi, Australia, suddenly recovered his sight while shaving.

Kendrick was blinded in a soccer match in 1926 when he was 22 years old and had reconciled himself to the doctors' verdict that he would never see again.

"When I was shaving," he said, "I felt a strange sensation in my eyes. I thought I could see my face in the mirror, but imagination has played some strange tricks on me in the last few years. I rushed out of my room and saw the sky—blue, with white clouds.

"Then I went back to finish my shaving. I dressed by touch in the way I have learned, and then went out into the street. It was all vague, but what I felt could not be described. Buildings I remember having passed scores of times. I could see them—and women dressed very differently from ten years ago. I kept noticing things and reading advertisements—anything. Then I ran back to the hotel, overjoyed, laughing, crying and kissing everyone. I couldn't help it. It was difficult to focus at first, but I am getting used to my eyes again. When I want anything, my first impulse is to reach out to touch it rather than look."

Departmental Changes

Reorganization Of Several Federal Departments Is Announced

Announcement of the reorganization of several departments of government into department of mines and natural resources confirmed forecasts that the deputy minister would be Dr. Charles Cammell, now deputy minister of mines. The department will be divided into five units with a director in immediate charge of each. The directors will be:

Mines and geology: John McLeish, now director of mines and geology branch.

Land, parks and forests: R. A. Gibson, now assistant deputy minister of interior.

Surveys and engineering: J. M. Wardle, now deputy minister of interior.

Indian affairs: Dr. H. W. McGill, now deputy minister of Indian affairs.

Immigration: F. C. Blair, now assistant deputy minister of immigration.

The salary of the deputy minister will be $10,000 a year, and the directors each $7,500. The reorganization takes effect on Dec. 1, when the act authorizing it will be proclaimed. The department will be under Hon. T. A. Crerar.

How To Simplify Matters

If Motor License Exchange In Empire Were Established

A resolution seeking the co-operation of the Automobile Association and the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and the allied automobile clubs of the sister Dominions, in a concerted campaign for the establishment of motor license exchange throughout the British Empire, was unanimously passed at the 23rd annual general meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association at the National Club in Toronto.

It was asserted that the governmental red tape and customs barriers to intra-empire motor touring greatly exceed those relating to travel between Canada and the United States.

Have More Patience

Really Artistic Pictures Are Usually Taken By Amateurs

Amateur photographers produce more artistic pictures than the professionalists, says Alex J. Kruppy, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the seventh international salon of photography held in Chicago.

"The reason," Kruppy said, "is that after spending hours daily on composition, well-to-do professionals had not the patience of an amateur and cannot permit a certain amount of commercialism entering the picture."

An Annual Affair

Police Department Of Tokio Manages Fly-Swating Campaign

In the greatest fly-swating outburst on record the citizens of Tokio, Japan, annihilated 88,704,706 flies in a single day. With true Japanese thoroughness, each fly was duly counted and recorded as children and grown-ups trooped into the police stations with their captures. An inhabitant of Chitaya ward won the first prize with a record of 200,191 flies. The anti-fly campaign is an annual fixture. It is managed by the police department as a health measure.

Making Goodwill Tour

Business men from all sections of Canada will participate in a trade mission and goodwill tour to the Orient sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The party will leave Victoria January 19, 1938, and will include Hong Kong, Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki and Shanghai.

A few dollars spent annually on keeping well is a far better investment than a big doctor's and hospital bill.

Insurgent Forces Capture Toledo And Rescue Fascists

Toledo, Spain.—The insurgent forces captured this city, rescuing the beleaguered fascists in the Alcázar fortress and routing the government forces after they inflicted heavy losses.

The Alcázar's defenders—men, women and children—rushed joyfully out of the military school to batter at the government fighters from the rear while the main body of fascists charged up the slopes outside in a fierce assault. They had successfully resisted attempts to oust them for nearly 10 weeks.

Entering Toledo at 11:35 p.m., the insurgent forces drove the government militiamen in wild disorder before them and inflicted heavy casualties.

The conquest of the ancient Moorish capital, 41 miles south of Madrid, came only after a terrific struggle in which fascist commanders hurled trained shock troops of Legionnaires against the barricaded gates on the north side of the city.

Aeroplane on both sides played an important role. Government artillery boomed into sundown despite the insurgents' occupation several hours earlier, but there was little property damage.

The capture of La Canada, north-west of Madrid, was claimed by the insurgents, who asserted government troops had suffered heavily during a fascist cavalry charge.

Weather Observations

Airmen To Carry Out Work In North West Territories

McMurray, Alta.—Sub-atmospheric meteorological observations will be made in the North West Territories during the coming winter by three Royal Canadian Air Force men who arrived here by plane from Winnipeg.

The men—Sgt. R. L. Thomas, pilot; Sgt. P. E. Sorenson, co-pilot; and Corp. L. S. Thompson, mechanic, will be assisted by a meteorological observer.

From their base at Fort Smith, N.W.T., about 500 miles north of Edmonton, the airmen will make daily flights when weather conditions permit, to a height of 15,000 feet where temperature and other conditions will be automatically recorded on a barograph, thermograph and other equipment carried on the aircraft.

The work is to be carried out for the Dominion meteorological service and the United States weather bureau.

Settled By Draw

Copenhagen, Denmark.—Government parties pulled a majority of the landing seats out of a "hat" after elections a week ago, left a deadlock for control of the Danish upper house of the Danish parliament, but it was settled when the government coalition drew the lucky slip from a 3,000-year-old bronze-age urn and won 39 seats to 37.

Infantile Paralysis

Winnipeg.—Seven new cases reported, the number of infantile paralysis victims in Manitoba total 191. Belief the peak of the epidemic has been passed was expressed by physicians.

Fascists Advancing On Madrid Met With A Wall Of Water

Madrid.—A 10-foot fall of water, released from Alberche dam by government forces, roared down on a column of fascists advancing on Madrid and swept many of them to their deaths, it was reported.

The flood, sweeping down from the lifted dam gates near San Martín de Valdeiglesia about 36 miles west of the capital, inundated a fascist camp to a depth of 10 feet.

The government resorted to the desperate measure of releasing the flood after steel and gunpowder had failed to stem the fascists' advance on the capital, said 10,000,000 cubic yards of water were released.

They said they believed San Martín de Valdeiglesia had been inundated and large stores of insurgent guns and trucks, mules and horses destroyed.

Virtually all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 were drafted to the militia, meanwhile, as the government sent reinforcements to block the advance of Moorish troops toward Toledo.

Evidently well aware of the urgency of stopping the insurgent attack on Toledo, the government launched counter-offensive from Santa Cruz del Retamar which was reported to have swept the Moors back through Quivampo to Maqueda.

Rum Smugglers

Constitute A Serious Problem For Enforcement Officers

Kansas City.—The flying chief of Canada's famed "Mounties"—in 30 days he made an 11,000-mile inspection of posts which once required three years—declared here that U.S. prohibition repeal turned the tables on Canada.

Whereas smugglers once swarmed south, the tide has turned north until "get your man" now means get the bootlegger, said Major Gen. Sir James MacBrien, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

"They constitute the most serious enforcement problem facing our country today," he asserted. "Ship loads of rum are being brought up from the West Indies and smugglers are running liquor over the border in unknown quantities."

"In one six weeks' period we seized 60 automobiles south of Montreal carrying contraband liquor."

"On the brighter side, 'We have only one criminal code, instead of 48, to enforce. We have no machine gun gangsters, no organized racketeering mobs.'"

Canada is far behind the U.S., Sir James declared, in scientific crime detection.

"But we're learning a great deal from your federal bureau of investigation."

Sir James arrived by air for the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

Planes For Northern Work

Specialty Built For High Speed Photographic Work

Montreal.—The second of three aircraft being built here for the department of national defence for service in the Northwest Territories was put through tests here. The planes are especially built for high speed photographic and transport work and carry sufficient fuel and oil for five and a half hours' work at high altitude.

At the rear of the cabins are mountings for three oblique cameras which photograph automatically through small apertures in the metal body. The aircraft are fitted with float landing gear and the normal wheel undercarriages can also be fitted as well as a special ski undercarriage for winter flying.

Potatoes From Alberta

Northern Part Of Province Has Surplus For Export

Edmonton.—Export of 500 carloads of potatoes from northern Alberta to Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, will result this fall because Dominion government reports indicate that area was the only part of western Canada with a surplus available for export. It was anticipated the export, first major shipping out of the province in 10 years, will bring district farmers an unexpected revenue of about $250,000.

Urges Fun For League

Montreal.—A suggestion a large fund, contributed to by all members of the League of Nations, should be placed at the disposal of any league member whose territory is invaded, was advanced by Dr. Hans Simons, of Germany, in a discussion on the European situation and league affairs at a meeting of the Montreal branch of the League of Nations' Society.

DR. CHARLES CAMSELL

He has been named Deputy Minister of the new Department of Mines and Natural Resources which has been brought into being at Ottawa.

Judicial Vacancies Filled

Hon. N. W. Rowell Appointed Chief Justice For Ontario

Ottawa.—Making a clean sweep of the judicial vacancies in Ontario the government appointed a chief justice two judges to the supreme court and six to the county courts, Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell, K.C., a veteran Ontario jurist, member of the war-time Unionist government, was selected for the vacancy created by Sir William Mulock.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice and acting prime minister, also announced the appointment of W. E. Gladstone Murray, Canadian-born executive of the British Broadcasting Company, and Augustin Friton of the Polytechnic School, Montreal, as general manager, and assistant general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. This was in accordance with recommendations of the radio governing board as announced by L. W. Brockington, chairman of the board.

For the two additional supreme court judges requested by the Ontario government, the appointees were Edgar Chevrier, K.C., member of parliament for Ottawa East, and Ainslie W. Greene, K.C., also of Ottawa. To fill the vacancy created in the House of Commons by Mr. Chevrier's appointment, writs have been issued for a by-election to be held Oct. 26.

A judicial vacancy in Quebec will be filled at the next cabinet session, but the vacancy in Alberta will not be filled until the return to the office of Hon. T. A. Crennan, minister of mines and resources, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, both of whom are in western Canada.

Existing civil service vacancies will be left until the return of Prime Minister Mackenzie King from Geneva.

The radio executives, who take office Nov. 2, will receive salaries of $15,000 for the general manager and $12,000 for the assistant. Chief justice of Ontario receives $10,000, the two supreme court judges $8,000, and the county court judges $5,000.

Heavy Wheat Yield

Edmonton.—Threshing 60 bushels an acre from an 11-acre field of Red Bobs wheat, Adam Marks, farming between Bremner and Fort Saskatchewan, stepped into first among high producing grain farmers of Edmonton district. The yield from the Marks farm is the heaviest so far reported in Alberta this season.

France Moves To Effect Readjustment Of Country's Currency

Paris.—France moved swiftly toward devaluation, armed with an agreement with Great Britain and the United States for equilibrium of the franc, pound sterling and the American dollar.

Officials of the finance ministry said the franc would have a new value of approximately two-thirds its present worth, fluctuating between 49 and 43 milligrams gold content, with no definite point fixed between these two figures.

A stabilization fund of 10,000,000 francs will be established under the tripartite agreement to keep speculators from driving down the franc and to maintain the franc's gold position within the stated limits.

Leon Blum, Socialist leader, summoned parliament into extraordinary session, while a decree, published in the official journal, gave debtors owing sums which are to be paid in gold or foreign currencies the right to hold up payments.

Parliament will be asked to re-evaluate all gold at current rates.

Finance Minister Vincent Auriol, announcing parliament would be asked for "readjustment of the currency," decreed the stock market closed for several days and the franc market strictly controlled.

The text of an official communiqué said the new gold value of the franc "ought to be between 49 and 43 milligrams gold of 900 fineness." The franc's gold content now is 85 milligrams.

(The British treasury said Britain and the United States welcomed the French decision to "readjust" its currency.)

In Washington, the treasury announced the United States and Great Britain, with France, would "use appropriate available resources" to avoid any disturbance in international exchange resulting from realignment of the franc.

Sixteen bills, it was learned, will be placed before the French parliament, some of them designed to compensate French business interests for losses they expect to suffer through the franc's realignment.

The general council of administration of the reorganized Bank of France was called into special session to study the consequences of the dramatic decision.

Finance Minister Vincent Auriol also decreed the payment of bills of exchange and other commercial obligations payable in gold or foreign currency which fall due may be deferred by written request of the debtor.

Wall Street sources said the decree controlling gold payments was interpreted as placing a partial and temporary restriction on the movement of gold and thus removing France from the free international gold standard.

France was forced into the new monetary policy by a series of pertinent developments, informed quarters asserted.

Shipments of gold were used for payments abroad because of an unfavorable trade balance, and the dwindling gold reserve precipitated speculations which depleted the Bank of France's reserve.

(The last statement of the Bank of France showed gold reserves at approximately 50,000,000,000 francs, set as the minimum of the French "war chest.")

Financiers expressed belief devaluation would decrease disparity between French prices and world prices.

A degree of government harmony in the financial crisis was assured by Communist party support, the Havas News Agency reported.

Wiping Out Of Taxes

Cancellation Of Debts In Certain Dry Areas

Lethbridge, Alta.—A widespread cancellation of drought area farmers' debt and interest charges, back taxes and a new agreement governing interest rates on future financing in Saskatchewan will be announced within a few days, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, said in an address to the board of trade here.

These steps, he said, were agreed upon at a recent conference of federal and Saskatchewan government officials in Regina. He was not prepared to state the exact date to which the cancellations will be effective, but intimated it would be quite recent.

He said the announcement would come from the Saskatchewan government.

The wiping-out of taxes will include all of those owing to municipal, provincial and federal governments, Mr. Gardiner stated. Since the federal government was responsible for bringing in people to settle in areas where making a living was extremely difficult, the whole Dominion would bear the losses arising out of the debt reduction.

Mr. Gardiner then outlined a plan under which settlers would be moved from non-productive land to better land. The drought areas would become federally-owned and would be converted into pasture.

League Officials

Canada Elected To One Of Six Vice-Presidencies

Geneva.—Canada was elected to one of the six vice-presidencies of the League of Nations assembly.

The vice-presidency goes to the chief delegate of the country elected, in this case Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Fifty-two delegates voted. Canada received 39 votes. The other countries, elected, and their votes, were: France, 49; the United Kingdom, 47; Yugoslavia, 44; Soviet Union, 5; Italy, 32. One ballot was declared void.

Italy, although elected a vice-president, has not sent a delegation to the present assembly.

Endeavor Of League To Preserve Friendly Relations Of Members

Geneva.—France presented a plan for a League of Nations disarmament conference while the league moved to prevent inflammatory speeches from the rostrum.

France officially notified the league assembly steering committee it would propose convocation of the general committee as a disarmament conference.

The committee, meanwhile, authorized President Saverio Lamas to halt any speaker he thinks guilty of utterances liable to affect adversely international relations.

The first scheduled speakers include Julio Alvarez del Vayo, delegate of the Spanish government; Yvon Delboe, French delegate; and Foreign Secretary Eden of Great Britain.

Del Vayo, it was understood, will address the league on the Spanish civil war.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, it was reported, has been advised to hurry the complete conquest of Ethiopia to fortify his demands that Emperor Haile Selassie's delegation be excluded from the league.

Counsellors have urged him, reliable informants said, to subjugate Ethiopia so thoroughly the negus would have no further claim to a capital, such as Gore, or to any jurisdiction, on which to demand rights to Geneva representation.

The negus was said to recognize the danger he was preparing a last-ditch stand to maintain a real, however tiny, in Ethiopia. Haile Selassie left for Ethiopia.

Mussolini was told, informed sources said, the league vote to recognize the Ethiopian delegation and to reject the credentials committee's proposal that the world court be asked to rule on Ethiopia's membership, was actually an Italian victory.

Some leaders were convinced it was reported authoritatively, the world court would have ruled against Italy. The court, it was said, would have held Italy's acquisitions in Ethiopia violated the covenant of the league and, therefore, could not affect Ethiopia's claim to membership.

Mussolini was apprised of this explanation, urged to remain in the league and let time solve the question.

You Can't Fool the People
All The Time

It has been stated that the provincial government will prevent stores advertising "loss leaders." A "loss leader" is something offered at less than cost, to induce people to deal at a store. The loss is made up usually on other articles purchased. An instance of this was reported to The Journal this week. A local store advertised sugar at less than cost. A customer went into another store and comparing the price of sugar found it a little higher in price. However, she went back to the store with the low priced sugar, and asked for $10 worth of it. She was informed they had sold out of the sugar. The intention was only to sell a limited amount to each customer, not expecting to have a call for a large amount. It serves to show that loss leaders are really misleading.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

EASY CREDIT has brought difficulties to many, particularly the creditors. Investigation among local retailers reveals that credit accounts have increased instead of decreased in the past two years. This is surprising in view of steadier employment having prevailed during that time than in the few years prior to the re-opening of the coke ovens and the resultant increased output from local mines.

APPROXIMATELY one million dollars per annum is being paid in wages and salaries. Every two weeks about $40,000 cash is paid out to workers and employees in town. Surely out of this there should be sufficient to enable people to pay for the necessities of life on a cash basis, instead of having to be carried at stores. Good managers of households will do it, but all too many mortgage their wages for a considerable period to pay for things other than necessities. It is unfair to the retailers to let them wait.

WHEN A MAN HAS PAID FOR things necessary to life itself, then he has the privilege of spending what is left over according to his whims. But not before. To engage in a contract to pay for a luxury which will necessitate having to stall off the baker and the butcher and all other retailers is not fair, neither is it good business. People benefit themselves as well as the retailers by paying as they go, and goods could be sold over the counter on a closer margin of profit. Many who now pay cash frankly state they are helping to pay for a percentage of bad debts, and make complaint on that score.

ORGANIZATION among retailers in order to curtail the evils of undeserved credit will have to be effected if further difficulties are to be avoided. A cash customer is a good friend, while many credit customers are poor risks. Self-protection in order to save themselves will compel merchants to get together and decide on common action to protect themselves against slow pays and those who never pay until they are forced.

THE WORLD'S Series opened on Wednesday between the New York Yankees and the New York Giants. For the next few days young and old will be keen baseball fans, with ears attuned to radio reports of the games. Until the series is decided, all other sports activities will remain in the background.

VERY soon hockey teams will be lining up players. Coleman is as determined as ever to make a further bid for the Allan Cup, and merits of local players are being discussed. President Creegan of the Canadians on being asked if there was any news, smiled somewhat dryly, as if he had something up his sleeve, and replied, "well, there may be next week." Scodellaro, whose brilliant goalkeeping helped largely in putting the team in the finals last season, will be replaced, as Trail has secured his services. This leaves the fans guessing who will be in the nets for Coleman. Of the prospects under consideration, nothing has yet been given out by those in the know.

THERE ARE times when one ponders on thoughts to help fill this column. There are periods when happenings of sufficient importance to write on are as scarce as money, which seems to have taken a flight during the past few weeks. If the column is not filled, we are liable to be charged with laziness. Even if we filled it, somebody will throw a brick at us, yet it must be filled, even if the material is not of importance.

HERE IS an interesting announcement which suddenly comes to mind. It concerns the erection of the new school. The trustees would be glad to have a name, and in order to bring in suggestions, a prize of $5.00 is offered to the name considered most appropriate. This should arouse interest among young and old, not particularly for monetary value, but because the name will stand forth on the front of the building for years and in a sense will be symbolic of local enterprise. Names may be submitted at any time, addressed care of this office, and the board or judges appointed will select that which they consider best for the purpose.

VIMY PILGRIMS created a good impression in England. A London correspondent stated: "But they are not merely splendid men physically. All are noticeably well turned out, smart and alert-looking. I like especially their kindly cheerful attitude." Now that may be laying it on a bit thick, but who wouldn't be cheerful going over there twenty years after and not have to worry about plum and apple jam, front line, delousing stations and all that.

Shreveport Journal: It is said that on one occasion Daniel Webster climbed to the summit of one of Vermont's tallest peaks and there made a speech to the mountain. This is respectfully passed along to the political spellbinders for what it is worth.

Life: In a newspaper, filler consists of scattered tiny items and odd facts which you don't really appreciate until after you've tried to read the other stuff in the paper.

Whoever is in a hurry shows that the thing he is about is too big for him. Haste and hurry are very different things.—Chesterfield.

domestic coals are just on the line, probably a little over. The Alberta domestic has made a strong recovery from the 20 cent a ton loss in 1933.

Alberta sub-bituminous, marketed at a loss of 60 cents a ton in 1932 and 1933, has shown an upward trend for the past two years. The operating loss in 1935 was just a little below 10 cents a ton.

Fortunately, Alberta bituminous coals are slightly better placed as compared with other fields, but not with its own record of former years. This field shows a bare 10 cents a ton profit.

The British Columbia field also has shown an upward trend in recent years, until today, it is operating at a loss of about six cents per ton.

trictive burdens, a sad state of affairs is sure to arise. There seem to be two alternatives in which a remedy can be effected. One is a sharp reduction in taxes and other unnecessary regulations that add to operating costs. The other is the gradual displacement of imported fuels by a National Fuel Policy designed to open up Canadian markets to Canadian coals.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Intending to travel to London, England, and join the British navy, Francis John Savage, 16-year-old Edmonton boy, has left Edmonton.

All French children between nine and 14 are now enrolled for instruction in the fundamentals of aeronautics.

John "Red" Kelly, 32, former prominent hockey player, died in hospital at St. Boniface, Man., after a lengthy illness.

Philatelists have detected flaws in the new King Edward VIII stamps issued in the United Kingdom, Marvin Wolf, member of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club said.

Ernest Bakewell, member of the British Columbia legislature for MacKenzie, handed in his resignation from membership in the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation of British Columbia.

A special vegetarian menu served as a place card for Bernard Shaw at a testimonial dinner in London given to H. G. Wells in honor of his 70th birthday. Five hundred persons attended.

The British government collected $98,754 ($4,843,770) in inheritance taxes from the estate of the late Sir Henry Wellcome, explorer, scientist and pharmaceutical pioneer and magnate, which totaled $2,138,959 ($10,694,795).

One thousand five hundred troops, part of the 15,000 reinforcements ordered to Palestine to aid in quelling Arab terrorism, embarked on the steamship California for the Holy Land. The troops were the second battalion the West Yorkshire regiment and the second battalion the Hampshire regiment.

Coronation Ceremonies

Question Is Raised As To Whether Queen Mary Will Attend

The question whether Queen Mary will attend the coronation of her son, King Edward VIII., next May is being discussed with some animation. The answer seems to lie entirely in the personal desires of Queen Mary and Her Majesty.

There is no precedent in England for a widowed queen attending the coronation of her husband's successor but among members of the royal family of the present and immediately preceding generation precedent often has been followed.

Queen Alexandra, widow of King Edward VII., did not attend the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary in 1911, although there was talk at the time that her absence was solely against her own will.

The present position is somewhat different, as there is no queen consort to the crown.

Must Take Periodical Rest

Workers Who Fill Radium Needles Have Tiring Job

If you had to take three months' rest with pay every time you worked three months, wouldn't you like it? Maybe yes, and maybe no. Not if you had a job filling needles with radium. The workers have to stand behind lead screened cases, into which only their hands go. Minute particles of radium salts are coaxed into small, specially constructed needles. These are later used for implantation in diseased tissues.

"The person who waits 24 hours or more in a theatre queue," says an essayist, "is usually regarded as something of a figure of fun." A sort of standing joke, in fact.

Two Sides To Story

Human Body Not Fitted For Modern Craze For Speed

Four thousand miles, from New York to Central Europe, in five days! That was the record achieved by the recent test in which a specially-chartered Imperial Airways air-liner made the link, Queen Mary, at Cherbourg, and flew with a party of passengers via Paris, Munich and Vienna to Budapest. As soon as the ocean liner reached Cherbourg, the party which were to make the 1,020-mile flight to Budapest were conveyed by motor launch to the aerodrome where the air-liner was waiting. Within an hour and a quarter they were in Paris, a distance of 209 miles. Zurich, 306 miles, was reached at lunch-time. In less than an hour they reached Munich, then on to Vienna and Budapest, at a speed reaching 170 miles an hour. A radio-telegraph service now enables passengers by air, sea or land to keep in touch with each other and with the world. Government officials flying along Empire routes can receive and send messages while they travel. Business heads can keep in touch with their headquarters throughout the journey. But there is another side to all this story of ever-increasing speed. The human body was not built for working or playing at the rate suggested by this way of living.

Circumstantial Evidence

British Author Gives Reason For Dismissing Rumor About King Edward's Marriage

Renewed rumors that King Edward VIII. of England would get married, maybe to Princess Irene of Greece, sisters of King George II. of Greece, were indignantly dismissed by John Crinkworth, noted British author who writes a weekly piece about Edward for a London magazine.

On the subject of the King's marriage Crinkworth writes: "We have reasonable circumstantial evidence that the King at present is contemplating no such step. His new suite at Buckingham Palace, in the preparation of which he has taken elaborate care, is designed for the accommodation of his existing bachelor establishment. That in itself should be an indication of his intentions."

Crinkworth continues: "If the King decides to marry, official announcements will be made immediately. Anyone outside the King's family circle professing to have inside information is not worth listening to."

His Favorite Song

King Edward Requested Three Encores In Vienna Club

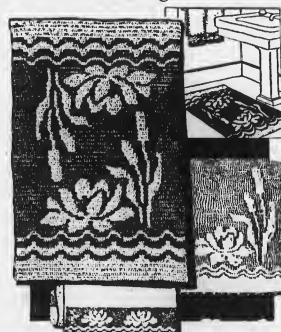

King Edward has a favorite song—and it deals with the rustic life of Austrian peasants. His Majesty heard the song in a night club in Vienna and requested three encores after which he tipped the performer liberally.

"That's my favorite song," he said. The song, in dialect, refers to the lower Austrian village of Langenlins, near Vienna.

To Fight Jap Menace

Russia Is Building In Secret A New Submarine Flotilla

Russia is concentrating a new and secret submarine flotilla at Vladivostok, reliable sources disclosed—to guard against the possibility of attack from Japan.

The submarines are the "mystery fleet" of the Pacific. They are listed in regular naval manuals. No prying eyes are permitted to fathom their design.

Soviet officials admit no specific number. Informers estimate that between 40 and 50 submarines are stationed there. Japanese sources state 80 are based within the Vladivostok area.

The submarines are new, small and easy to conceal, capable of quick manoeuvres—this much is known, observers say.

They are believed intended chiefly for defensive purposes because of their small size. They are subject to no restrictions or treaties, however, because the Soviets retained a free hand on construction in the Pacific. Intended for the Pacific, informants related, they were manifested in European Russia. Knocked down for delivery they were transported 6,000 miles to secret shipyards at Vladivostok, these informants continued, and assembled. New personnel is being trained constantly to handle the craft as their numbers increase. It was learned.

The Soviets have no capital ships, cruisers or destroyers in the Pacific, it was stated. But an army estimated at 500,000 men is stationed in the far eastern territory back up submarine and aerial defences.

Have Real Tunnel

Engineering Students At Oklahoma Can Test High Winds

University of Oklahoma engineering students will have a chance this school year to find out things about a 250-mile-an-hour wind.

A new tunnel, eighty-five feet in length is near completion on the campus. A 400-horsepower engine, using natural gas as fuel, will drive the wind through the steel tunnel so research workers at the other end can find out what happens under certain conditions.

Works Progress Administration technicians constructed the tunnel at a cost of $18,000. It was designed primarily for research in aeronautics. It will be used in testing the wind resistance of airplanes, automobiles, trains and boats, according to Joseph Liston, associate professor of mechanical engineering. Addition of the tunnel to the school's facilities will enable it to offer new courses in airplane testing and aerodynamics research.

Acted As Guide

Duchess Of York Once Discharged Duties Of Maid

H.R.H. the Duchess of York knows in minute detail the history of ancient Glamis Castle, where she spent most of her happy girlhood and once used her knowledge to play a practical joke. A short while before her marriage, when a party of Americans visited Glamis, she borrowed a maid's cap and apron and discharged the duties of guide so admirably that the visitors were delighted. Little guessing the true identity of the "maid," they tendered her a very handsome tip, which she was compelled to accept in order to keep her secret.

Something Worth Guarding

Democracy Protects People And Gives Them Every Freedom

Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, told members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon meeting in Toronto that the trend in Europe brings home the fact to British people that democracy was not just a text book word.

While the democratic form of government has been thrown overboard in countries where it was given a half-hearted trial, and tendencies are either to the extremes of either right or left with dictatorships following in the wake, it is noteworthy that in those countries under the British flag "rule by the people and for the people" is more jealously guarded than ever.

The British Empire and the United States still represent the main bulwark against undue curtailment of liberty. The freedom we enjoy is something that cannot be valued too highly.

We have religious liberty, freedom of the press, a generous measure of free speech. Moreover, when a government isn't doing what it should, we elect another in its place to carry out the will of the people. Isn't that a combination of privileges worth while guarding jealously?—Kitchen Record.

Treasures From Japan

Priceless Objects Being Loaned For Exhibition In Boston

Two of the great cultural institutions of the United States, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Harvard University, have been honored by the Japanese Emperor.

As a tribute to these educational centres, Japan is allowing the exhibition in Boston of some of her priceless art treasures. The exhibit is to continue until October 25.

Besides the examples of painting and sculpture on loan from the imperial household, there are also Japanese museums and art schools, there are many valuable Japanese art treasures owned by the Boston Museum. It was because of the great interest in the museum of fine arts has shown in Japanese art for more than 40 years, and because of the tercentenary of Harvard that the treasures were allowed to come to Boston as a tribute of the Japanese people.

The collection consists of 136 objects. They represent the finest in Japanese art from the beginning of the Buddhist art in Japan in the seventh century to the close of the Tokugawa period in the middle of the nineteenth century.

What is said to have been the greatest calamity in history was the Black Death, a pestilence which spread over Asia, Europe and northern Africa in the 14th century, and took the lives of 67,000,000 people.

Husband (home early) — "Ah! There's no place like home." Wife—"What's happened at the club, darling?"

A new and beautiful variety of perpetual carnation has been named after the Duchess of Gloucester.

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY

Golden text: Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations. Matthew 28:19.

Lesson: Acts 15:36, 16:15; Romans 15:18-21.

Devotional reading: Hebrews 11:5-10.

Explanations And Comments

The First Converts in Europe, Acts 16:15-16. There could have been no synagogue in Philippi, or Paul would have gone there on the Sabbath. Beyond the city limits by the river side there was a place of prayer, and thither Paul turned his footsteps to meet a company of women, among them Lydia, a prosperous merchant from Thyatira, who dealt in purple-dyed garments. She was a Jewish proselyte, for it is said of her that she worshipped God. Paul gave his message to these women, and the Lord "opened her heart to give heed unto the things which were spoken by Paul"; and she believed the good news, with her household was baptized.

Lydia brought the missionaries to meet her house their headquarters, and there they did. Hospitality was always a marked characteristic of the early church. 1 Peter 4:9; Romans 15:7; 1 Timothy 3:10; 3 John 5. Paul's Pioneer Work, Romans 15:18-21. Moffatt's translation makes the sense clearer: I will not make free to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished by me in the way of securing the obedience of the Gentiles, by my words and by my deeds, by the force of miracles wrought among them by the power of the Spirit of God. Thus from Jerusalem right round to Illyricum across Asia Minor and the Aegean Illyricum behind Beroea, I have been able to complete the preaching of the gospel of Christ—my ambition always being to preach it only in places where there had been no mention of Christ's name, that I might not build on foundations laid by others, but that (as it is written)

They should see who never had learned about him, And they who had never heard of him should understand. Paul seemed like a tent-maker of the lives of men, who had no sooner begun to weave a piece of canvas and had not the pattern of warp and weft prepared than he was driven away—to start again and to be interrupted once more. How futile it seemed! But what really happened was that instead of Paul completing his tent at one place, he left it at one tent and another men and women who had caught his pattern and his plan and would work it out after he had left them. It was the scout riding on perilous work ahead of the main army; the heroic pioneer missionary" (Basil Matthews).

Home Rule For India

Provincial Autonomy To Come In April, 1937

The Marquis of Dufferin, viceroy of India, said in his initial address to both houses of the Indian legislature that the stage was set for provincial autonomy in April, 1937. He added there was a strong probability the temporary period between that achievement and the inauguration of federation in India would be of short duration.

The government of India bill, passed through the British parliament in 1935, provided for these changes. Appraising this prospect, the new viceroy said: "It is the more impressive by reason of its contrast with the ominous background of the contemporary world. While in Europe has arisen an array of dictatorships, Great Britain and India are about to initiate an experiment in representative government which for breadth of conception is without a parallel in history."

Airways Traffic Control

United States Use Radio To Avoid Congestion In Air Lines

Traffic cops have finally taken over the United States sky lanes.

It hasn't reached the no-parking stage yet, but the bureau of air commerce is rapidly setting up an airways traffic control system which directs pilots and the policemen at the control bosses' autoists.

Each station has a large map showing the air routes in and out of airports. A couple of men study maps, ear-phones over their heads and their eyes fixed on a sea of tiny wooden planes in the sky.

Along half a dozen routes, measured in inches instead of miles, planes move at various rates of speed.

One of the watchers sees six planes moving on an airport within a few minutes of one another. Methodically he takes charge of the situation.

By radio he pushes the nearest one down to a lower level, the next to a level a little higher than the rest, the third to a still higher level and so on. If this is not sufficient to avoid congestion, he reduces the speed of one or two.

Nagging Will Cause Sickness

Medical Research Council Reaches This Decision After Survey

A higher sickness rate is likely to prevail in offices where the atmosphere is fretted with nagging than in those where a harmonious atmosphere exists, the British Medical Research Council has concluded after a survey.

A general attitude of growing antagonism is a good medium for the cultivation of disease germs," the Council states. "When employees feel they receive justice and consideration there is mental environment that will prevent the easy yielding to any chance of sickness."

One case quoted is that of a company employing a number of stenographers doing the same work. It was found that during a recent influenza epidemic most of the girls in one office were away sick, while in another there were few absent. The head of the first office was declared to be a petty nagger, while the head of the other was a person with a sunny disposition.

A Dangerous Plaything

Many Children Have Been Blinded By Toy Guns

The air-gun or B.B. gun and the sling-shot, so coveted by boys and so freely advertised by certain conscienceless business houses, are responsible not only for the death of hundreds of beautiful and useful birds, but for mad and permanent injuries to others. A circular issued by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers states that in one institution for the blind, there are 300 children who will never see again because their eyes were put out by toy guns.—Our Dumb Animals.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA GRAIG

Advance notices had been plentiful and alluring about the event at which "Play-Girl," was to make her debut, take off her mask, as it were, and face the world she had flouted. She had been living in New York for some time, the newspapers discovered—with the help of Michael Fairbourne in charge of the Tarrance Publishing Company's publicity department—and because she had become the most-talked-of, and up to then, retiring, of all anonymous celebrities, it was fitting that she should come out of that retirement with a flourish of publicity trumpets.

Everybody was curious about "Play-Girl." Some insisted that she would be discovered to be some sex-starved and disappointed old maid who had soothed her repressions through the imagery of her book. Others voted for a blonde divorcée, several were openly mentioned—while still others insisted there was no "Play-Girl" at all (they got it from authentic sources, of course) but that the whole book was a symposium of collected experiences which had been ghosted by the firm's own Beatrice Fairfax who was, they were assured, fat and well past fifty with several quite up and coming grandchildren. It was hard for anyone to believe that there really existed in the flesh any young and beautiful woman who could have sinned as violently as "Play-Girl" and then cold-bloodedly and analytically have written about her experiences, playing with them with the same skill that a surgeon exhibits in wielding a scalpel.

At all events, it was inevitable that everyone wanted to be among the first to see "Play-Girl" when the Tarrance Company introduced her in an eagerly awaiting public.

On the night of Starr's debut, therefore, the grand ball room at Pierre's was crowded. Everybody who was anybody socially, and modern enough to be seen where "Play-Girl" was seen, was there. Hol-poi would get their chances later, and have an opportunity to gaze after her when she went to the theatre and night clubs, pressing upon her her autograph books as though she were a movie celebrity. In fact, before "Play-Girl" made her appearance, she was more exploited than any cinema star, for while they only portrayed the emotions of stories, "Play-Girl" had lived hers. And still lived to tell the story.

With all the fanfare preceding her Starr made a poised, effective entrance the night of her debut, descending the steps from the balcony to the ballroom, scarlet-tipped fingers resting lightly on the arm of Michael Fairbourne.

Her gown was a seductive sheath of clinging black chiffon velvet, daintily cut, a startling foil for the misty pallor of her face. She had been sitting on one of her low chairs beside an inlaid table when Michael came for her and he had stared. Starr recalled how he had shaded his eyes, looking at her, surveying her from her cloud of black hair to the table edge. She had asked him, at the surprised look in his eyes: "D-d-don't you like my frock?"

And Michael: "It was just looking for it."

It was that kind of debut frock, a daring modiste's triumph.

Her face, with the cannela skin, was as perfect as a cameo carved out of ivory. Her mouth was a painted, scarlet smile. The long black eyes—so perfect to carry out all those stories about her royal Egyptian ancestry—were as deeply mysterious as those of any pictured priestess. And a soft mass of unrestrained, cloudly black curls added an odd, seductive note to a picture of worldly sophistication. The one touch of color was the enameled necklace and bracelet which at a glance appeared of fabulous worth as antiques.

That was how Starr Ellison looked on the occasion of her debut into the glittering night life of New York, highly social, or otherwise, Starr Ellison, the infamous "Play-Girl!"

A long murmur of interest that almost held a touch of awe greeted the arrival of the celebrated, lovely young woman who had at last cast off her anonymity in a sensational burst of publicity. It broke immediately into little individual murmurs from the men:

"Gorgeous!"

"I'd like to meet her!"

"I've got to meet her! No long distance worshipping for me!"

"Snappy number, eh, what?"

"If there's a good Egyptian sample, no wonder old Marc Antony went haywire!"

From the women:

"Bravo, hussy!"

"You wouldn't think she'd dare to come here or any place else with the reputation she's got!"

"As if it isn't bad enough to have lived the kind of life she's lived without writing her experiences for everybody to read!"

"I can well believe that about her Egyptian blood. They've always been decadent, I've read!"

"And they say that terrible book has made her a fortune, my dear!"

It was quite natural that some of the remarks should reach the girl on the steps, but she betrayed no embarrassment. Black eyes beneath unbelievable long, dusky lashes swept the ballroom with a glance of contemptuous mockery, with an odd, disdainful aloofness with which some long-gone princess might have looked on her slaves.

Her painted smile never wavered. She turned and whispered to the man at her side something which her audience took to be one of the sarcastic witticisms of the variety with which her book was spiced:

What Starr Ellison actually said was:

"Michael-Hassan, I'm scared! My legs feel wobbly. I don't think I can walk a step further."

Warm gray eyes reassured her. Michael patted her hand. Seared little skin with the heart of a child. He hadn't thought of it in that light before. . . Didn't know the thought had been coming to him by degrees during their intimacy of the preparation stage—He had been preferring to remember where he had found her—Rot, all of it! She had been a La Luna habitue. . . "Nough said."

He whispered tensely:

"Keep your courage, kid. You're doing great. Chloepere herself couldn't have knocked them any harder!" Then his eyes narrowed as he shot her a quick glance, "And for the love of mud, don't call me 'Hassan'. . . Some of them might not understand that—"

Starr's long eyes passed over him slowly.

"I understand, Michael. Don't let it worry you. Everybody will understand that your interest in 'Play-Girl' is because you're so loyal to the interests of your firm."

Michael flushed at the unexpected rebuff, but said nothing. Perhaps he had made a mistake in assuming with the girl an air of camaraderie. After all, theirs was a most meticulous business arrangement.

In short order Starr was introduced ed to more people than she could ever hope to remember. It was bewildering. She was conscious all the time, too, of an undercurrent of antagonism, disapproval in too many cases. She knew she was being measured by her reputation. The kiss-and-tell girl.

Men ogled her, drinking in her fragile loveliness. Some of them managed to inject an undertone of suggestiveness beneath their most casual remarks.

Starr understood. They were wondering how far they could go; they were trying her out. They were fancying themselves in the role of this famous beauty's newest play-partner. She, who had never had a love affair in her life, could have taken her pick of twenty lovers that night had she chosen to offer the slightest encouragement.

The women were on their guard: conversation stilted, eyes on their men, as though mortally afraid that their own husbands or sweethearts would be "Play-Girl's" next game.

It was strange, this being the centre of attraction. It was a strange undertaking upon which she had embarked. Starr was most uncertain in her own mind whether this kind of "playing" was a game worth the candle of luxurious living. For six months. But she had to go on. Must!

Starr felt a hand draw her from out a circle of curious admirers and turned to face Michael. And a girl. In the girl's eyes was that touch of interest that is usually in the eyes of a juvenile scientist with a butterfly on a pin. The girl smiled oddly and slowly.

"So you are 'Play-Girl'?" she drawled. "Well, I am certainly interested to meet you!"

Starr heard Michael murmuring the name of Stephanie Dale in the moment she noticed that Stephanie substituted "interested" for the conventional "pleased." There was an unpleasant infection in the imperious voice—further unpleasantness in her haughty mien.

She made her remark much in the manner she might have said, "How interesting!" viewing the freaks in a side-show through a jeweled long-nette.

The girl Michael wanted to marry was a slim, pink and white blond. Her eyes were as brilliantly blue as sapphires, and as cold. She wore all white, and looked like a pale house flower against Starr's vivid coloring.

Starr felt a vague quickening of her pulses. Of all the people she had met this night, Stephanie Dale was the first to register indelibly in her consciousness.

Little Helps For This Week

The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms. Deut. 33:27.

Within Thy encircling arms we lie,
O God, in Thy infinity;
Our souls in quiet shall abide,
Beast with love on every side.

"The Everlasting Arms." We think of that whenever rest is sweet. How the whole earth and the strength of it is beneath every tired creature to give it rest, holding us always. No thought of God is closer than that. No human tenderness or patience is greater than that which gathers in its arms a little child and holds it, heedless of weariness. And He fills the great earth, and all upon it, with this unseen force of His love that never forgets or exhausts itself, so that everywhere we may lie in His bosom and be comforted.

Made in Canada

Dominion Manufactures Some Of World's Finest Inks

Canada is more responsible than any other country in the Empire for the world's split ink. She is the chief producer of carbon black, one of the principal ingredients of printers' ink. The Chinese ascribe the invention of ink to Hsien Tcheu, who lived between 2697 B.C. and 2597 B.C., and it is known that the ancient Egyptians prepared and used inks at a very early date. An Egyptian document—a papyrus—with written characters of the date 2500 B.C. is still in existence. Two thousand years later the emperors of Greece and of Rome were wont to sign their decrees with a flourish in purple ink. Since these days the numbers and kinds of ink have been many, and today some of the finest inks in the world are manufactured in Canada.

Strange Civic Custom

The strangest civic custom of modern times is still practiced in Lhasa, Tibet. The privilege of being mayor of the city for the first 23 days of the year is sold by auction. The highest bidder assumes his mayoral duties, rules the city as he thinks fit, and keeps all the money he can raise through additional taxation and fancy fines.

Luxury For Pigs

Cold shower baths have been installed in what are believed to be the most luxurious pig sties in the world, at Emu Plains, New South Wales. If the animals are kept cool in hot weather, it has been found that they fatten better.

Sunlight is about 618,000 times as bright as the light of a full moon.

Local News

Mrs. John Houghton is a Calgary visitor this week.

The International mine thermometer registered 10 degrees above zero at 7.30 a.m. to-day.

Miss A. Yuill spent the weekend at Claresholm visiting friends.

Mrs. John Jackson, Jean and Margaret, accompanied by Mrs. Andrew Jackson, left this morning by car for Calgary.

Excavation is being made on the premises of The Motordrome for the installation of a 1000 gallon gasoline tank.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Thompson of Salmo, B. C. are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burrows.

Mrs. F. B. VanDuzee entertained a number of lady friends at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bowen, and daughters, Maidea and Doris, and Mrs. T. Flynn and Mrs. Joe Emmerson, motored to Calgary on Tuesday for a short visit.

Don't forget the cent-a-mile excursion on the C.P.R. to Calgary, good going October 2 and 3, returning up to October 5. Round trip from Coleman is $3.95.

Mrs. J. R. Laidlaw returned to Claresholm recently after visiting in Coleman with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Kahout, for several days.

E. C. Dial, Alberta manager for Western Sales Book Co., called on The Journal this week. This office is the local agent for this company's counter sales books.

Miss Eileen Jones of Kaslo, B. C., niece of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Evans, and Miss Hazel McKeown of Fernie were the guests of Mrs. Evans the early part of the war.

Mrs. K. Smaek of West Coleman returned this week from Vancouver where she has been visiting for the past few weeks with her daughters residing there.

Mrs. S. Bannan, who during the summer was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Spokane, is reported to be steadily improving, and is now able to sit up. Mr. Bannan and Henry Zak were visitors there over the week-end.

Every worth-while citizen of Coleman can do his share to make it a better place in which to live, by the exercise of faith, good works and determination to succeed in his own particular work. Have an objective and work for it persistently, every day.

HONOR IN BUSINESS

I read something on the cover of a little magazine called, "The Better Way" which is worth passing on: "There is an honor in business that is the fine gold of it; that reckons with every man justly; that loves light; that regards fairness more highly than goods or prices or profits. It becomes a man more than his furnishings or his home. It speaks for him in the heart of everyone. His friendships are serene and secure."

Preliminary Wear

Pat: "O! dislikes new boots."
Salesman: "Why is that?"
Pat: "Cause Ol niver can git me fate into him till Ol've worn 'em a week or so."

Try It
"Very well, how do you spell 'need,' meaning to need bread?"
"Knead, of course."
"Wrong? Meaning to knead bread, you said, didn't you?"
"Yes."
"Well, it's knead."
"Not at all; you knead dough, but you need bread."—Wall Street Journal.
